BONUS LEGISLATION STILL HAS CONGRESS UP IN THE AIR; EXCESS PROFITS TAX FAVORED

House Ways And Means Committee Republicans Reported For Early Bringing Out Of Bonus Measure, But May Change Their Minds And Hedge Again.

NOW OFFER DELAYED PAYMENT PLAN

Washington, D. C., March 1.—House Ways and Means Committee Republicans were today in favor of bringing out a bonus measure, not postponing it, but in the bewilderment which has marked the Committee's course, there is no assurance that this opinion would exist throughout the day. It became known that the Committee test vote showed a tendency favoring early action, while there was considerable sentiment favoring a definite financing plan. The excess profits tax is gaining supporters in the House. Within the American Legion there is also a feeling that such a tax would be proper, for it would hit those who made money out of the war.

Delay for two years in the cash payments of a soldier bonus was virtually decided upon by members of the House Ways and Means Committee today. It is understood that it is planned to issue bonus certificates upon which ex-service men in time of need could obtain loans.

The sentiment of the Committee is that this is the only way out of the bonus dilemma. The Republican members of the Committee today named a sub-committee to work out a plan that will not cause a demand for large cash payments for a soldier bonus in the next two years, according to an official announcement by Chairman Fordney.

Whether the delay in receiving cash would be favorable to Legion chiefs was not stated. Legion leaders, however, are strongly opposed to a delay and Hanford MacNider is now on speaking tour in behalf of prompt action. He speaks at Alton, Illinois, tonight.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—"No bonus for the shipping interests until after the soldiers get their bonus," was the popular slogan in Washington today. This was being seized upon by opponents in Congress to President Harding's plan for American shipping. Sentiment in both Houses shows that the President's submitting a definite and comprehensive program, has broken down the long-standing opposition to such a measure.

TAYLOR MURDER SUSPECT HAS CONFESSED, SAYS POLICE REPORT

Los Angeles, California, March 1.—One of the two men named by Mrs. John Ruff as the slayer of William D. Taylor has confessed, according to police reports today. Some important new developments have occurred. The suspects were put through the third degree throughout the night. It was known that valuable information touching on the murder has been obtained from one of the suspects. The head of the homicide squad was working today on the information obtained from the prisoner.

County Controller and District Attorney In Dispute Over Court Costs In Three Criminal Cases

The new County Controller and his Attorney are "from Missouri" when it comes to exercising their official prerogatives in the way of visiting or passing bills of cost along with other items of expense incident to the conduct of the business of Clearfield county, and when they think any proposition advanced is not in accordance with or provided for by different Acts of Assembly as they view the law governing such charge or charges they have no hesitancy in saying so; put their foot, or several feet, down adversely accordingly.

The records in Prothonotary Ralston's office show that Controller Thompson and his attorney John M. Urey are not in entire accord and agreement over certain charges made in certain criminal cases which have developed in Clearfield county the past few months. That this difference had appeared between the county officers involved became known this morning when District Attorney Arnold petitioned the Clearfield County Courts for a mandamus compelling Controller Grant H. Thompson to accept and direct the payment of certain costs in three different criminal cases. The total amount involved in the different items is $196.76.

The bulk of these bills which the Controller refused to agree to the case of Com. vs John Cavalieri, who was charged with the killing at Madera on Sept. 4, 1921, of Dominick Pellagi. The first item which the solicitor for the Controller decided was not a proper charge was for Justice's costs on a bill of Justice of the Peace James Ruffner for $8.76, which bill was contracted by the District Attorney and considered by him incident to the prosecution of the case.

The other item in this case objected to and upon which payment was refused was for $123, the amount paid by Sheriff Gorman to Daniel Barger who acted as guard over the murderer at the instance of the District Attorney, while Cavalieri was confined to the Clearfield Hospital suffering from the effects of a gunshot wound received in the battle in which Pellagi met his death.

NEWBERRY CASE TO BE MAIN ISSUE IN MICHIGAN FIGHT

Senator Townsend Defends Colleague's Election And Defies His Enemies To Beat Him.

MEANS TWO FIGHTS

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, D. C., March 1.—(United Press)—The home state of Truman H. Newberry will be watched intently this year by politicians and plain people alike, for they want to see what Michigan will do about Senator Townsend, one of Newberry's staunchest defenders.

Townsend is a candidate for re-nomination and re-election. As a Newberry champion, he faces the hostility of those forces within the state which opposed Newberry and brought about the attempt to prevent him being seated in the Senate. Newberry was seated by the Senate and that is something in Townsend's favor. The Republican national organization has promised him all the help he needs. He will need some help, it is admitted.

For not only will he have opposition from within his own party for the nomination, but if he is nominated he will, indications are, be confronted by a strong Democratic candidate, who will keep the Newberry vendal to the fore all through the campaign.

Townsend had no part in the Newberry campaign management. No hint of corruption or of unlawful or excessive expenditure of money clings to him. But he defended Newberry. He defied Newberry's opponents to prevent his re-election if they could. He accepted the gage of battle and the issue which Newberry's foes made.

John Emery, who for a time was national commander of the American Legion, has already entered the contest against Townsend for the Republican nomination. Emery's appeal is to the Legion and thence he will draw his strength. Whitener Watkins, progressive candidate for governor in 1912, and a former state senator, is also being boomed to tilt with Townsend in the primaries. The Newberry issue is made to order for men like Watkins, whose political creed may be summarized in the statement that he regards William S. Kenyon of Iowa as the ideal senator.

In the background is Henry Ford, who opposed Newberry for the nomination and election in 1918, and who was the moving spirit behind the Senate contest against Newberry. Ford will not be a candidate, but he will have a part in the fight. Just what that part will be nobody knows. Ford is keeping his mouth shut and biding his time. But to him the Newberry case is not a closed incident.

The Democrats see an opportunity to capture Townsend's seat. They have two strong men eligible for the nomination. One is former Representative Frank Doremus, who voluntarily retired from the House at the end of his term. The other is former Governor Woodbridge N. Ferris, twice elected to the highest state office, and regarded as certain to give the Republican candidate an extremely close run.

ANTI-PROHIBS TO WAGE BIG BATTLE FOR MODIFIED LAW

New York, N. Y., March 1.—Thirty anti-prohibitionist organizations have launched a combined drive to restore light wines and beer to America, this fact indicating that the long awaited spring offensive of the "wets" is getting under way was made public by William Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. More of these organizations are being formed. Wine and beer promise to be the big issues in American politics in Congressional elections this fall.

Wireless Telephone Used To Catch Thief

New York, N. Y., March 1.—For the first time in history the wireless telephone has been used to apprehend a fugitive. The Burns Detective Agency said today. A young man representing himself as an agent of the Beaver Fall, Pa., High School, obtained two wireless sets from a Pittsburgh house without payment. When the imposition was discovered the Burns agency found themselves without clues. As a last resort they had the wireless stations broadcast a description of the youth and asked that he be apprehended. Ten thousand wireless operators heard the call and within an hour relatives of the young man called at the supply house and paid for the outfits.

MARCH BLIZZARD WRAPS SOUTHWEST IN SNOWY MANTLE

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—March came into the southwest today on the heels of a blizzard that demoralized transportation, wire communication and highways. Snow that already measured a foot in depth in some parts of Kansas and extending over Arkansas, Missouri and part of Texas are still falling heavily over most of this territory early today. Snow flows worked all night to liberate a Missouri Pacific freight train. Work in the oil fields of Kansas and Oklahoma was suspended and it was necessary to close many of the rural schools.

PHILIPSBURG MAN CONVICTED OF INVOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER BY JURY AFTER ALL NIGHT SESSION

His Automobile Killed Little Jackie Trumble On State Road At Chester Hill On April 27th Last—Child Running Across Road When The Accident Happened.

EXTREME PENALTY IS TWO YEARS

The jury in the case of Daniel the crossing." The Court answered Dennison, of Philipsburg, charged with involuntary manslaughter and which was tried, before Judge Bell yesterday, was given to the jury, following the Judge's charge, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Soon after taking up their deliberations a deadlock arose and the jurors wrestled with Dennison's guilt or innocence all night long.

When court opened this morning the jury notified Judge Bell through Tipstaff Voinchet that they wanted some instruction on the point which had them snagged. They were invited into the Court room and when Judge Bell asked them what instructions they desired the foreman arose and said they were deadlocked over the question of "who had the right of way on the crossing, and would the jury have to convict the driver of the car if the accident had occurred on the crossing." The Court answered the question by saying that such was not the law and the fact of the accident happening on the crossing itself would not warrant a verdict of guilty anymore than it would to lease the driver of the vehicle if the accident had occurred other than on a crossing; that the law required the driver of a car approaching a crossing to be on his guard.

The jury then retired and resumed their argument.

After returning to the jury room following Judge Bell's instructions the jury quickly got down to business and were back in court at 11:00 with a verdict finding Dennison guilty as indicated.

The maximum penalty for involuntary manslaughter is two years in the county jail. No sentence was imposed at this time nor was a motion for a new trial been made thus far.

ECHO ANSWERS AS BOOTLEGGERS GO DOWN LINE FOR 30

Several echoes of the wholesale rum raid made in DuBois on November 5th, 1921, by Sheriff Gorman and Asst. Chief of Police Morris under the direction of the DuBois City authorities, were heard in criminal court yesterday afternoon.

None of them proved to be the returning sound waves of a blank cartridge explosion either. Echo No. 1 reflected the foot steps through the corridor and down the back stairs of one John Sorg who finally agreed to enter a plea of guilty after strenuously protesting his innocence ever since being picked up. John's foot steps were heavy and the echo was a resounding one because Judge Bell had directed that Sorg not only pay $100 fine and the costs, but that he should serve thirty days in jail.

Nick Calderone, a fellow bootlegger.

John also had nothing on Dominick. His plea of guilty secured Nick a dose similar to John's and the echo of the pair's retreating hobnails made a much more perfect blend than the stuff either man was manufacturing or disposing of at the time the minions of the law fastened their talons upon them and haled them before the tribunal set up under Pennsylvania's Woner Act.

There have been many strange happenings come to light in this desert land of ours since the country went dry—in spots. One of these came to hand in Criminal Court yesterday afternoon during the trial of Jesse Robbins, the DuBois taxi driver who was arrested in the booze raid at DuBois November 5th last, which netted the officers some eighteen or twenty violators—the liquor law and cop's goings and quantities of liquor, hootch or near hootch.

When Robbins was taken into custody, 22 bottle "Golden Wedding," "bottled in the barn" or somewhere adjacent thereto, were captured with him. In fact the liquor with the mellow and inviting name accompanied Robbins and the officers to the Squire's office in DuBois, the 22—count them 22—bottles standing just as erect and straight on the Squire's desk as an guardian of the law in the third rate city. However time and other things change and appearances are not always what they seem. But imagine the consternation of City Solicitor Gleason when he demanded that these diverse and sundry twenty-two quarts of "good liquor" be emptied the bag and getting the contents before the Judge, a Ja. old King Cole, lo and behold, but 13—count them 13—bottles appeared. Now wasn't that a pretty mean to set before a fellow ingrained with centuries of Celtic superstition. Gleason was mad; those DuBois "policemen" who hope to bear the spoils of the hunt home in triumph or seclusion with them were mad, too, and why shouldn't they be. But despite all their perturbation 13 it remained. Those misperine nine had gone where the woodbine twineth or otherwise, where all good likker is destined to and by all rights should go—down.

Who's who, or who got them, as an old egg friend Omelet once remarked "that is the question"—who got 'em. Will no one answer? No one will answer.

Meanwhile the trial of Robbins proceeded without the missing nine. He was defended by A. R. Chase, Esq., who did the best he could with the facts as they were, but the jury couldn't see it his way and promptly returned a verdict of guilty.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By "Skinney"

The Fraternal Order of Eagles has started a nationwide campaign for an Old Age Pension" system for the United States, modeled after the British and French plans. The United States is the old great industrial nation which has thus far failed to arrive at a practical solution of the problem of justice to the aged.

In mapping out their campaign of education the Eagles have got together and published some interesting data on the manner in which the poor aged are taken care of in Pennsylvania. They give the report of a recent investigation, which makes interesting reading. In part, it follows:

The Pennsylvania investigators found that "The heads of the county almshouses are, as a rule, political appointees. The great majority of them had no experience of the nature of their duties, previous to their appointment. There can be no question but that many of them have been successful farmers. But knowledge of the proper care of a farm is hardly sufficient to qualify one to take care of and promote the general welfare of those entrusted to them and who look to them for some measure of happiness. Many of the men connected with the management of the almshouses are prejudiced against the inmates and often without the rudiments of an education. When the superintendents are highly educated men and trained — of whom there are only a few — they are as a rule powerless to make improvements without the consent of the 'poor board' or the County Commissioners."

A director of the poor had granted orders for outdoor relief to three different persons, which, later, it was claimed went for wearing apparel for another woman in the case. The orders included items such as silk hose, corsets, ladies' hats, ribbons, and night shirts. The whiskey bills presented showed that nineteen and one-half gallons of "fire water" were delivered to the County Home between January 25, 1916, and January 22, 1917. When the physician at the County Home was asked "what quantity of whiskey he prescribed for patients during the year," he replied, "not over a gallon in twelve months."

It is of course natural that the average citizen when the question of state-wide pension system is brought up should inquire as to how much more in taxes it will mean to him. "It is astonishing, however," says the Pennsylvania commission in its able report, "that the same citizen never takes the time to inquire either as to how much he is spending on the poor at the present time, or as to the quality of the services rendered for the expenditures." The commission invites the taxpayer's attention to a comparison of the table set for the stewards of the poor and the table set for the unfortunate victims of poverty as made in one average example of the Pennsylvania almshouses. The cost per capita of the inmates of this institution in taxpayer's money was $25.14 monthly. The yearly rations provided by this per capita for the 313 inmates and the 32 persons at the steward's table are as follows:

7½ lbs. butter per inmate and 30½ lbs. per steward.
28 eggs per inmate and 200 per steward.

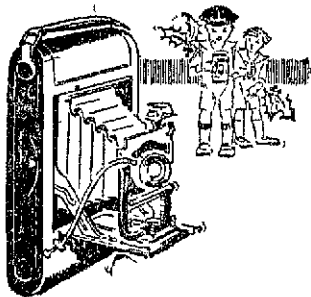

22½ lbs sugar per inmate and 33½ lbs. per steward.

23 qts. of milk per inmate and 101 qts. per steward.

1 oz. chicken per inmate and 10 lbs. per steward.

The same striking contrast holds for other foodstuffs. Let the taxpayer consider this division of the money appropriated for the support of the poor between the political appointee who has charge of his welfare and the unfortunate pauper, and say whether a pension of $25 monthly paid directly to the aged dependent might not be of more benefit to him. The situation resolves into utter absurdity in the further finding of the commission that "the percentage of overhead expense to that spent on direct maintenance runs in the majority of cases to 100 per cent; in a number of instances it amounts to from 100 to 400 per cent, while in at least one case it exceeds 4,000 per cent."

26 Premiums (1845-1870) . . . $962.00 Fully paid (1870) by a single premium . . . 430.07

Total Net Cost for 70 Years' Insurance . . . $160.18

(This is at the rate of 9¼ cents per $1,000 insurance per annum.)

The oldest policy in force on the books of the NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY matured by the death of its owner December 27, 1915. This policy was written on the life of David William Cheever, M. D. (A. B., Harvard, 1852), of Boston, Mass., who had been a member of the company for the unprecedented period of seventy years and five months.

Dr. Cheever was born in 1831, and was graduated from the Harvard Medical School in 1858, where he was made Professor of Surgery in 1882. He retired as Professor Emeritus in 1893, in which year the University honored him with the degree of Doctor of Laws. His professional career was unusually distinguished—for half a century he was leader in American medicine.

Investigation leads us to believe that this policy was the oldest in the United States issued by any American Company. If this be true it follows that Dr. Cheever's policy had been in force a longer time than any policy ever issued in this country—over seventy years.

Dr. Cheever had another policy with us, issued in 1870, forty five years ago, for $7,500, age 39, single premium $2,832.73; 45 annual returns of surplus, $2,837.40; net cost $95.32.

(At the rate of 28¼ cents per $1,000 insurance per annum.) The New England Life Insurance Company was chartered in 1835, and commenced business in 1843. It was the first purely mutual regular life insurance company chartered in America.

Its affairs have been administered wisely and conservatively, and every member has been treated justly and equitably.

FLU EPIDEMIC AT BLAIN CITY MAN IS ROSSITER ALARMING; ASKED TO PAY OUTSIDE HELP NOW FOR BEATING WOMAN

The influenza has assumed serious proportions at the coal mining town of Rossiter, Indiana county. The Punxsutawney Spirit of Tuesday makes mention of the situation in their neighbor town as follows:

According to reliable information received from Rossiter there are about 400 cases of influenza in that town and help has been secured from outside sources. The population of this enterprising mining town consists of about 2,000 or more people and to have one-fifth of them down with flu presents a serious situation.

Rossiter has had up until the present time, one physician, Dr. G. F. Stauffer, who became swamped with work and a request was sent to the Philadelphia General hospital for a physician. The physician has arrived and several nurses from Indiana are helping out in the crisis.

The epidemic there is of the same mild type that has attacked Punxsutawney and other places all over the country, but one death being reported. It is believed that the situation is now partially in hand and that the epidemic can be held in check.

Second Ward Firemen Entertain Ladies Of Community Last Night

The Second Ward Fire Company and their guests, including the ladies of that section of town, enjoyed a delightful evening at the hose house last evening, despite the fact that the "warblers" engaged for the occasion developed "warbles", flu or something, and, like the "heavy artillery" in the sepaking line failed to be on hand when Foreman J. K. Potter as Master of Ceremonies called the assemblage to order, and after apologizing for both singers and speakers absent—and present—stated the meeting or banquet was held for the purpose of inducing the people, especially the ladies, to take greater interest in and make use of the Hose House as a community building centre. Foreman Potter solicited one co-operation of the ladies in this regard and assured them it was the wish of the entire company that their quarters be utilized whenever possible for any worth while gathering in the interest of their community as a whole.

He closed his remarks by warning all present to put not their trust in lawyers, as no less than three had fallen down on him on this occasion. He then impressed several of those present into their places and brief addresses were made by J. D. Connelly, H. P. Powell, John A. Stock and Mayor Frank Kittelberger. At conclusion of the speechmaking delicious "eats" were served by a very capable committee of the company and thoroughly enjoyed by those who participated.

ROOSEVELT PANS CRITICS OF NAVAL TREATY JUST MADE

Washington, D. C., Mar. 1.—"Soft headed pacifists are endangering the relationships established by the naval treaty negotiated at the Arms Conference, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt today told the convention of National Rivers and Harbors delegates here. Roosevelt urged the country to stand steadfast against the efforts of the pacifist, who he said during the next twelve months will make every effort to destroy America's place in the new arrangement.

London Continues To Celebrate Big Wedding

London, Eng., March 1.—Until a late hour today Londoners and visitors to the British Capitol continue to celebrate the wedding of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. For an entire week, in fact, London will be gay with dances and parties while mutual illumination will make the city prettier than ever before.

Shenfall, Eng., March 1.—Princess Mary, now Viscountess Lascelles and her husband today enjoyed the peace and quiet of a Shropshire honeymoon far from the excited throngs that greeted them yesterday. There was a guard stationed at the gate of Weston Park, which had been turned over to the couple for the first part of the honeymoon, to prevent unauthorized photographers from bothering them.

Get the Right Viewpoint.
A man is like a bit of Labrador par, which has no luster as you turn it in your hand until it shows to a particular angle then it comes deep and beautiful colors.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Suit was entered in Prothonotary Ralston's office Tuesday morning on behalf of Adam Ragosa and Helen Ragosa, his wife, who are suing one John Lego for $2000 damages for injuries which he inflicted upon Mrs. Ragosa in a fight.

The parties to the suit hail from Blain City and the plaintiff's statement recites in moving language that on Nov. 19, 1921, Lego assaulted the woman, and with force of arms, etc., did strike her a great many blows on or about diverse parts of her body. He also with great force and violence kicked her, knocked her down, pulled her hair and continuously and continually belabored and kicked her with his fists, hand and feet.

As a result of the terrific beating the plaintiff is sore, lame and disordered; the husband had to pay out $15 in doctor bills and was compelled to hire a housekeeper at $30 per month to take her place while being deprived of the comfort, companionship and attention of his wife.

He has already been to the expense of $200 and figures $200 as compensation for the loss of his wife's companionship while the remainder of the $2000 is desired as compensation for the injuries and pain the poor woman suffered.

Anti-Saloon League Will Fight Any Move To Defeat Dry Law

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The Anti-Saloon League is ready to use all its power in fighting wine and beer candidates for Congress at the forthcoming election, Counsel Wheeler for the League said today. Wheeler believes that the next Congress will be drier than the present one. Public sentiment throughout the country, and this includes the so-called "wet" states, is demanding strict enforcement of Prohibition. The organizations demanding light wine and beer will not make much headway, at the same time it behooves the members of the League to keep their eyes open.

WILL PRINT LIST OF NEW MEMBERS

Last Saturday the Progress published the roster of John Shado Post of the American Legion. The list was compiled by the membership drive had started, but as it was in our hands for some time before we were able to get it printed, and a lot of new members had been taken into the Legion meanwhile, it was only natural that the names of these latest members did not appear on the published list.

A supplemental list is being prepared and the new names will be published shortly.

Three More Brokers Fail In Bucket Shop Crash

New York, N. Y., March 1.—Three more brokers announced suspension of business today, bringing to twenty eight the number of brokerage houses to close since February 1st. W. J. Smith & Co. announced that in order to conserve the interests of all their customers and creditors during the period of uneasiness they deemed it advisable to call off business at this time. The names of the other firms to suspension were Hall & Co. and Howell & Wales.

PRESSMEN'S STRIKE REDUCES SIZE OF NEW YORK PAPERS

New York, N. Y., March 1.—New York morning newspapers were very much reduced in size today due to the pressmen failing to appear for work. Instead of taking their places at the various publishing houses they were taking part in a mass meeting to decide whether to strike or accept the terms offered them. They finally agreed at 2:30 a. m. to return to work.

THEIR DOG DEPARTED

A Second Street business man purchased a No. 1 "cat dog" out in the Woodland country a day or two ago and bringing the animal to town confined the poor cither in a No. 2 kennel in the rear of his place of business. The dog voiced his protests with a deep bass voice of anguish for a couple of days, but on the third morning one end of a severed rope was found attached securely but the dog "had went".

The people who keep shouting that the present Congress is doing nothing must have a low view of the intelligence of the public to think they will believe such stuff. It is of course true that Congress has not settled half of the problems that press insistently upon the nation. Our lawmakers face very great and untried problems. They can not go ahead slapdash and settle all these questions in a minute.

They must debate these matters at length and take time to hear all points of view. Before measures can be enacted our statesmen must do a great deal of conferring with each other, and with the people who come to Washington, to shape courses of action that will prove sound and practical.

The people who think nothing is being done should consider the fact that taxes are being reduced for this calendar year by the great sum of $835,000,000. The removal of this load will have a tremendous effect to promote industrial activity. The enormous sum of $260,000,000 was saved on transportation taxes alone. Lifting the assessment on freight removes a direct addition to the cost of living, and the repealing of the taxes on passenger fares encourages business concern to send salesmen out and get orders, which will work directly to start up trade.

Much as the repeal of the excess profits tax has been attacked by radicals, yet the tendency of this act is to encourage people to put their money into industrial operations. The money that has been going into the United States treasury, will now go to employ labor, and the wage earners will get the principal benefit. So all along the line our statesmen are steadily accomplishing things that must put business on a sound foundation—Punxsutawney Spirit

MUST HAVE GREATER RESPECT FOR THE LAW

Those who were present in criminal court this week listened to the testimony in no less than five cases growing out of violations of the automobile law, if we may be allowed to style it such, and while we have no strictures or unfavorable comment regarding the violations complained of, we make mention of the fact here and now to demonstrate the crying need for more careful driving over the streets and highways of Clearfield county by those accustomed to travel in motor vehicles.

The present law relative to the proper handling of a motor vehicle on the public highway is a very liberal one from the standpoint of the man who operates a car and there is absolutely no occasion or sensible reason for violating same in a single instance in a day's travel. It was placed upon the statute books by those favorable to the development of motor traffic and was designed to end the vexations of the motorist incident to the operation of impecunious municipal and other authorities who took advantage of the old law relative to speed and set up many speed traps over the state, but unless the average driver shows more regard for the rights of the public generally the people of the state are going to arise en masse in their wrath and demand that coming legislatures put more and real teeth in a really drastic law regulating motor traffic.

The present motor law and all laws seeking to regulate automobile traffic is violated with impunity everywhere daily, and nowhere more flagrantly than right here in Clearfield where harum-scarum truck drivers, with an insane view to attract attention to themselves, will rush up and down street and around congested corners at a highly dangerous rate of speed when, if they had a grain of common sense in their heads, they would know it to be but the question of time until they crash into a pedestrian or other machine and leave death and destruction in their path.

Mayor Kittelberger has already received many complaints regarding these continued infractions of the law and, after warning the offenders here now, proposes to visit the penalty of the law upon every offender brought before him. The Mayor asks that automobile drivers respect the law regulating the speed of all motor vehicles within the limits of the borough, that the head and tail light provision be strictly observed and the borough regulation regarding parking of cars in front of mobiles to fires be stopped until after all the fire apparatus mobiles to fire be stopped until after all the fire apparatus has had a chance to get to the scene This do and you will save money and the humiliation of arrest

COUNTY CONTROLLER AND DISTRICT ATTORNEY IN DISPUTE

The third item on the list has to do with the case of Com. vs. Steve Banto, who it was alleged had furnished the alcohol for the Blain City drinking bout which resulted in the death of Wade Hawkins on July 18, 1921. In this case Dr. Lever Stewart, of Clearfield, was called as an expert witness, the District Attorney allowing a bill of $50 for his services. This was refused by the Controller on advice of his attorney.

The last item, which it is sought to compel the Controller to honor for payment is a $10 fee charged by John M. Bann, who acted as stenographer at the coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Kate Henchberger, who was struck and killed by an automobile driven by H. B. Sader, while crossing Third street at Market on the evening of November 12, 1921.

In mandamus proceedings such as this five days must elapse between the filing of the petition for a mandamus and the hearing in the matter. Judge Bell thereupon fixed Monday March 6th as return day at which time the matter will come up for argument and final disposition.

Looking through an old Bell Directory is as interesting as rummaging through grandmother's trunk in the attic.

It is a good way to check up on the progress of the community. It is surprising to find how often the first users of the telephone were the men of vision who later developed into leaders in their respective fields.

The first telephone directory was merely a sheet of paper with the names of about a dozen subscribers. In most cases no numbers were printed in the directory and calls were made by name. You simply said to the operator "Get me Mrs. Jones."

Every new telephone directory is a new footprint in the path of progress. The extension of the service and your increasing dependence on this means of communication is a tribute to the performance of the Bell Telephone System in the past.

New problems of operation and management develop as fast as the old ones are solved, but we have faith in our ability to meet the demands of each new era as we have met those of the past.

And we have the benefit of the experience of others who are working on similar problems in other parts of the Bell System.

The Face In The Mirror

Your face, does it wear the contented expression of good health, or are the features drawn and pallid? In the latter case, your story is read by all who see you, and what woman of spirit wants to be pitied for her physical condition? There is a way to get the nervous, tired lines out of your face and the slump out of your body. The use of that standard remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, will strengthen the nerves and tone up the system to resist that excessive fatigue.

LIBERTY THEATRE TO-NIGHT With Jazz, or Without?

Jazz is a wonderful thing! Many a girl has jazzed her way into a man's heart. Here is the story of a girl who jazzed her way out! It wasn't any fun. It broke her heart to do it. But there was another girl in the case. And, since none of this happened in Salt Lake City, one had to go. So this girl drove away the man she loved with jazz.

But, of course, he didn't stay driven. Here is a story that does things with your heart-strings.

Bring the family. It's that kind of a picture!

Our Eskimo Pie Coating Contains NO PARAFFIN

There are some stories current in the news columns of the papers in various sections stating that some makers of Chocolate Coated Ice Cream have been using a filler for their coating containing as high as ten per cent paraffin.

We are using a chocolate—the best we can procure from the Hershey Chocolate Company—that as far as we know, contains no paraffin whatever.

Our cream is the usual good KEYSTONE kind—it's carbonated—and you'll find that you can eat all the ESKIMO PIES of KEYSTONE ICE CREAM that you desire without the least injury. In fact, everything used is a food.

MEAT LOAF SANDWICHES

Nothing but the best of meats are used in making these meat loaf sandwiches. The meat is finely ground and then seasoned. Baked slowly so that the seasoning may permeate every partical of meat. Sliced—liberal slices, too—and placed between light fluffy bread. Then the sandwich is wrapped in wax paper as it comes to you so that all the goodness is kept in. Try one with a mug of our hot chocolate.

NEW AUTO TOPS

If you haven't been running your car during the winter you'll soon begin to think about getting it off the skids and tuning up for the coming spring. If your top begins to show signs of wear, or if you have decided to have your car refinished, you should have a new top and side curtains put on also.

I have several materials that I make curtains of and can sew in glass windows or the celluloid, as you prefer.
